Unable to stand the silence of the forest, I suddenly began talking. I needed to come clean to Reszurre about my history... How when I was living with the demon that picked me up, I was so captivated by his chivalrous spirit that I took part in a coup d'état against the demonic monarch, killing countless people in the process...

I've never... heard him sound like that... before...

Huh ...?

I did it for my own sake.

Reszurre-san, I didn't help you out of the goodness of my heart.

With these very hands, I killed ildains, demons, elves, dwarves... Anyone who I deemed an enemy.

To me, both becoming an apothecary and helping you are just a way to atone.

CRUSH

I'm nothing more than a hypocrite.

Really, I was only going to tell her that we should start looking for her hometown now that she's more or less healthy, but instead, I went ahead and laid everything bare... I don't really understand why I did it myself...
